Investment Opportunities

CEMI · August 2026 · cemi.ai

CEMI is a group of AI initiatives built on shared infrastructure — one research, production and delivery pipeline serving every sector we enter. That structure is what makes the group investable: each new vertical costs a fraction of the last to open, and each one strengthens the platform beneath the others.

Each initiative raises at its own level, for its own plan. CEMI.ai raises at group level, for the shared platform, the labs and the pipeline that every initiative is built on. An investor may enter at either level, and the two amounts are complementary, not alternatives: money into an initiative funds that company's plan, money into the group funds the machinery all of them run on.

The group round is US$750,000 in priced equity in CEMI.ai, at US$3,750,000 pre-money and US$4,500,000 post-money, over a 24-month plan, and it funds one thing: a shared commercial engine for the whole portfolio, because commercialization is the group's weakest point. The terms in full, the use of funds and what the round is not for are on the group ask page.

Investor kits by initiative

These initiatives publish their own investor kit — executive summary, deck, business plan, revenue streams, the ask, team and FAQ — built to the same standard as the group's. Each is a business in its own right, running on the shared platform.

Global by design, local by intent

Every initiative is built multilingual from its first line of code rather than translated afterwards: locale-prefixed routes, content authored per language, and a shared translation discipline that keeps each language's typography and terminology correct instead of approximating them. English, Spanish and French run across the group; the flagship platforms extend to German, Italian, Portuguese, Chinese and Japanese, and the learning platform to Arabic.

Reach is only half of it. The same architecture lets each initiative carry the local content that actually decides adoption — a regulator's own rules and payment rails in the Financial Innovation Lab's Dominican work, programmes designed around the institutions that will run them, and sectoral guides grounded in the regions they speak to. A buyer in Santo Domingo, Madrid or Paris meets the product in their own language, with examples from their own market, on the same platform that serves the others. That is what makes one shared engine sellable in many places at once.

The rest of the portfolio

The remaining initiatives — health, video, engineering, journalism and parenting — are at varying stages of commercialization. Dossiers are prepared on request for serious enquiries, under NDA where appropriate.

Corporate social responsibility

For corporate social-investment and CSR programs, our social-impact work is the natural match. The platform, the programs and the production capacity already exist — funding goes to reach and evidence, not to construction. The ask is fully costed and openly published, including what it does not cover.
